DAYS LATER.

The world has gone to shit. The greedy government's scams to rob us of our money, creating increasingly more cutbacks just to line their pockets, is now about to backfire. The government have a new drug. It's purpose, to cut crime. The test subjects, Isle of Sheppey. A drug poured into the drinking water supply of every home on the island. It's cure, once the drug is gradually consumed and entered into the blood stream it will calm down and stop peoples animalistic behaviour, stopping all crime. No more muggings, no more rape, burglary, drink driving and all manners of antisocial behaviour. The drug didn't work.... It made matters worse, a lot worse... The Isle of Sheppey has been shut down from the mainland since 2013. The island is now a prison. A concrete wall surrounds the perimeter. On a routine helicopter tour of the island, the Prime Minister Richard Brown, Dick for short, and Dr Wesley Whitetower the man who created the drug who's now employed by the government to monitor the behaviour of the islands inhabitants, crash landed onto the island due to engine failure. On the mainland by the old burnt out bridge which used to lead to the island a base camp has been set up, plain clothed police and MI5 are all there. They need someone brave or stupid enough to go in and get them out alive, if they're alive. Enter our leading man! A blacked out car arrives. A rugged man in hand cuffs is ushered out of the back of the car and shoved into the porter cabin. The porter cabin is for the head of operations for this mission, his name, Clifton Saunders. Clifton gestures to the rugged man to sit down.

CLIFTON

Well, well, well, Jack Clayton. I thought you were dead. Hi name is Colt? Colt although we are british. We should set this a year from filming. Britain has been dragged into a world chemical war brought on from military attacks against syria. An influx of refugees, attacks on british soil and gangs have segregated our society. The isle of sheppey has been used and closed off to house all un desirables and secret chemical warfare research has been tested on the people put there. Live ginipigs. Chemical designes not to kill to end the wars. However its turned the people into crazy blood hungry creatures. A fight to get off the island, destroy the research and fight the gangs. Escape from new york meets mad max meets cyborg and the night of the living dead... Immigrants and refugees on the island, gangs, warfare from the Middle East.... A tiny undertone in the film about how our society is becoming. Our hero is sent in to destroy research because if it gets out it's bad for the world. He's a waister given a pardon for crimes if he succeeds. Like escape from ny The film should start with the opening car chase where colt has stolen something from the government but is captured and forced to go onto the island to destroy the lab and get out the island alive to get his full pardon. Colt has stolen something from them and is being chased. The government want rid of him. No prison can hold him so they use him to destroy the lab but they think its a suicide mission because they think no one can get out the island alive. But they underestimate Colt!
